

Letter to Member Agencies

The Council of Agencies Serving South Asians (CASSA) is a not-for-profit social justice umbrella organization that supports Ontario's South Asian communities in addressing various social, political, economic, and cultural barriers. Currently, CASSA has over 120 member agencies that serve South Asian communities as well as other racialized and marginalized communities in Ontario.

Our mission is to facilitate the economic, social, political, and cultural empowerment of South Asians by serving as a resource for information, research, mobilization, coordination and leadership on social justice issues affecting our communities. CASSA aims to create social change by building alliances and working collaboratively with those who share a vision of empowering all communities to participate in defining Canada's future.

CASSA works on a number of projects and policies on anti-racism/anti-oppression, legal education for marginalized communities, employment equity, poverty reduction, equity in education attainment, health equity, youth engagement, combating domestic violence and hate crimes, seniors' wellness and organizational capacity building. CASSA engages diverse communities, policy makers, experts, advocates, and academics through advisory tables, steering committees, public forums, consultations, galas, fundraisers, awareness campaigns, and social media. CASSA also continues to advocate on behalf of our member agencies to all three levels of government on various public policy platforms.
